From the Principal's desk

Born from the fertile soil of young minds, the third tide of Tattva arrives like a river in bloom—a living stream carrying the untamed imagination, scholarly passion, and vivid expression of our vibrant student community. This collection flows as a testament to the life force of our campus, where daily discovery takes root and blossoms into a shared landscape of triumph.

The past season has been one of energy, achievement, and meaningful growth across both our Primary and Secondary sections. Our students have brought pride to the school through their accomplishments at national and regional sporting events, while our talented musicians earned recognition at the Interschool Band Competition. Alongside these achievements, our students continue to pursue academic excellence with curiosity, discipline and determination.

In keeping with the vision of NEP 2020, we have embraced skill-oriented learning through engaging workshops for students, faculty, and parents. Equal emphasis has been placed on mental health, mindfulness and emotional well-being, fostering an environment where every child feels supported, confident and empowered to grow.

These accomplishments are made possible through the visionary guidance and unwavering support of our Management, whose commitment to excellence continues to inspire innovation and progress.

Tattva is a reflection of this journey—a celebration of learning, talent, teamwork, and the unique growth of every student. I extend my heartfelt gratitude to our Management, educators, editorial team, and parent community for their continued partnership and trust.

As you turn these pages, may you find within them the spirit, aspirations and achievements that make our school community truly special.

With warm regards and renewed hope,
Dr. Nisha Menon
Principal, HMPS ICSE

EDITORIAL TEAM

Welcome to Tattva!

We are delighted to present the third edition of our Tattva magazine, a school chronicle that captures the achievements, experiences, and memories of the year.

This chronicle features a variety of activities, Bagless Days, achievements, IIMUN experiences, artworks, poems, stories, and articles by our young, talented, creative, and enthusiastic students.

At the heart of this edition lies a collection of moments that reflects the vibrant spirit of our school. Our teachers have also contributed beautiful artworks, articles, and poems. As students, we are taking the lead in continuing this tradition by bringing our own ideas, creativity, and experiences to its pages.

We envision Tattva as a hall of memories and creativity, where every thought finds an audience and every voice leaves an echo. Tattva serves as a journey through our year, allowing everyone to discover our creative ideas and achievements. So, let the pages turn, and step into the world of Tattva.

Explore. Discover. Relive.

Academic Award Ceremony

RECOGNISE ★ CELEBRATE ★ INSPIRE

At our school, we believe that every effort counts and every achievement matters. The Academic Award Ceremony is a special occasion to honour our students who have demonstrated hard work, dedication and a passion for learning.

This year, we are proud to introduce a new initiative — the Academic Awards Programme, a step towards further encouraging and celebrating the academic excellence and all-round progress of our students.

Together, we continue to build a culture of effort, growth and success.

Small steps today, Big achievements tomorrow!

Ganesh Chaturthi

The spirit of devotion and festivity filled the campus as students came together to celebrate Ganesh Chaturthi with great enthusiasm. Through vibrant dance performances, soulful songs, music and thoughtful presentations, students beautifully portrayed the joy and cultural significance of the festival. The celebration offered a meaningful opportunity to appreciate our rich traditions while nurturing creativity, confidence, teamwork and cultural values among our young learners.

Celebrating tradition • Inspiring values • Spreading joy

Janmashtami Celebration

The campus came alive with joy and devotion as our students celebrated Janmashtami with great enthusiasm. Dressed in colourful traditional attire, the young learners participated in various activities that showcased the life and teachings of Lord Krishna. The celebration helped students understand the values of love, kindness, friendship and righteousness while giving them an opportunity to express their creativity and cultural pride.

VOICES THAT INSPIRE...

MY MOTHER... MY TEACHER... MY CONFIDANT

A TEACHER SO REAL, A TEACHER SO TRUE,
A SOUL SO GENTLE, I ALWAYS KNEW.
CHOSEN BY GOD, ESPECIALLY FOR ME,
MY PRESENT, MY FUTURE — YOU'LL ALWAYS BE.

YOU NURTURED COUNTLESS LIVES WITH CARE,
A PARENT, A TEACHER, ALWAYS FAIR.
THROUGH EVERY STORM, YOU STOOD SO BRIGHT,
A GUIDING STAR, A CONSTANT LIGHT.

A RAY OF HOPE IN THE DARKEST NIGHT,
WITH YOU BESIDE ME, ALL FELT RIGHT.
I THANK THE LORD FOR BLESSING ME SO,
WITH A MOTHER WHOSE LOVE CONTINUES TO GROW.
NOW I SEE WHAT GOD HAD PLANNED,
WHEN HE SAID, HE COULD NOT BE EVERYWHERE ON LAND.
SO HE MADE MOTHERS, STRONG AND TRUE,
AND THAT IS WHY HE CHOSE YOU.

The Language of Behaviour

Understanding what your child may be Trying to Say

By Ms. Elisha Aranha
School Counselor

Children communicate far more than what they say with words. Sometimes, their behaviour becomes their language. A child may interrupt repeatedly, refuse to complete homework, become unusually quiet, sit alone, argue over a small issue, seek constant attention, or suddenly become restless. As parents, our first reaction may be, "Why is my child behaving like this?" But perhaps a more helpful question is: "What is my child trying to communicate through this behaviour?"

Behaviour is often a window into a child's emotions, thoughts, needs, beliefs and understanding of the world. When we learn to look beyond the behaviour, we begin to understand the child rather than simply trying to correct them.

Children Communicate in the Smallest Ways

A child may not always have the vocabulary to say:

- "I am feeling left out."
- "I am scared that I will fail."
- "I don't know how to do this."
- "I feel that nobody understands me."
- "I made a mistake and I don't know how to fix it."

Instead, the feeling may appear as a behaviour. A child who keeps disturbing others may be seeking connection. A child who refuses to participate may be afraid of getting something wrong. A child who consistently says "It's not my fault" may be struggling with responsibility or fear of disappointing an adult.

This does not mean that every behaviour should be accepted.
It means that behaviour needs to be understood before it is redirected.

Listen to the Language Behind the Behaviour

As parents, we often listen to our children's words, but we also need to listen to how they explain their experiences. Notice how your child talks about:

- success and failure
- mistakes
- rules
- difficult situations
- friendships
- school
- responsibilities
- things that go wrong.

Their language can give us clues about how much control they believe they have over their own lives.

What ts the Locus of Control?

Locus of control refers to the way a person understands the relationship between their actions and the outcomes they experience.

More Internal Locus of Control

A child with a more internal locus of control tends to believe:
"My choices, efforts and actions can make a difference."

Children who demonstrate a stronger internal locus of control often connect their actions with outcomes.

More External Locus of Control

A child with a more external locus of control may be more likely to explain outcomes in terms of circumstances, other people, luck, or factors outside their control.

Again, one statement does not define a child's personality.

Example:

Instead of saying: "The teacher hates me. That's why I got low marks."
A child might gradually learn to say: "I didn't understand this chapter. I need to ask my teacher for help."
That shift is powerful.

Small shifts create big changes.

The Parent's Role: Build Their Sense of Control

Sometimes, in our attempt to help our children, we accidentally do everything for them.

- We solve the friendship problem.
- We pack their bags.
- We complete the forgotten homework task.
- We call the teacher immediately.
- We fix every disagreement.
- We make decisions for them whenever possible.

These questions encourage responsibility without removing support.

Instead, try asking:

- ✓ "What do you think you can do?"
- ✓ "What part of this situation is in your control?"
- ✓ "What could you try differently?"
- ✓ "Would you like some help, or would you like to try first?"

Every behaviour communicates something. As educators and parents, when we pause to observe before reacting, we create space to understand the need behind the behaviour. When we teach responsibility without shame, we help students learn from their choices rather than fear their mistakes.

And when behaviour becomes a conversation, correction becomes an opportunity for reflection, empathy, accountability, and growth.

The goal is not just to change behaviour — it is to help the child understand it, take responsibility for it, and learn from it.

MS. KANCHI HINDOCHA

THE GREATEST ACHIEVEMENT
"SUCCESS MAY EARN APPLAUSE, BUT CHARACTER EARNS LASTING RESPECT."

What makes a person truly great? Is it wealth, fame, awards, or high marks? While these achievements are admirable, they do not define who we are. True greatness comes from humility, kindness, honesty, and compassion. These values shape our character and leave a legacy that lasts long after success is forgotten.

A Young Girl Who Chose Compassion

During India's first COVID-19 lockdown, millions struggled to find food. Among them was a 13-year-old girl from Madurai, M. Nethra, whose father, Mr. C. Mohan by profession ran a small salon and had carefully saved ₹5 lakh for her education. Seeing hungry families, she asked, “Can we use my education fund to help those who have nothing to eat?” Her father agreed.

Together, they used the entire amount to provide groceries to hundreds of needy families. Nethra gave away her savings but gained something far more valuable—compassion, humility, and humanity. Her selfless act was recognised by the United Nations Association for Development and Peace (UNADAP), which appointed her as the Goodwill Ambassador to the Poor.

A Cricketer Who Chose Humility

Humility is also seen in how we respond when life seems unfair. Sachin Tendulkar demonstrated this throughout his career. Even when he was wrongly given out LBW, sometimes just a few runs away from a century, he never argued with the umpire. He accepted the decision with dignity and walked back quietly, showing respect for the game and its spirit .People admire Sachin not only for his records but also for his integrity. He was honoured with the Bharat Ratna, India's highest civilian award, and was appointed the National Icon of the Election Commission of India to encourage voter participation in the world's largest democracy. His life reminds us that talent may bring success, but character earns trust.

One Lesson, Two Lives

Nethra and Sachin came from different worlds, yet both made the same choice. Nethra chose compassion over comfort. Sachin chose humility over ego. Neither sought recognition, yet both earned the respect of millions.

A Lesson for Every Child

We may never donate our savings like Nethra or play cricket for India like Sachin, but every day gives us a chance to build good character. We can thank our teachers, help a classmate, apologise when we are wrong, share with friends, respect our parents, and celebrate the success of others. Small acts of kindness create extraordinary people.

As the father of a Grade 1 student, I believe academic success is important, but values are even more important. My greatest wish is not only that my daughter succeeds in life, but that she grows into a humble, honest, compassionate, and responsible human being. The greatest inheritance we can give our children is not wealth, but strong character.

Conclusion

Years from now, our children may forget the marks they scored or the trophies they won, but they will always be remembered for how they treated people.

Let us raise children who are not only intelligent but also kind; not only ambitious but also humble; not only successful but also compassionate.

Because in the end, the greatest achievement in life is not success—it is character.

VERSES OF THE YOUNG

Precious

Every child is precious,
With a talent of their own.
Some love to sing and dance,
Some shine when they are alone.

Some dream big with imagination,
Some create and some explore.
Each child has their own calibre,
And can achieve much more.

Be proud of your uniqueness,
Let your special talents grow.
Believe in yourself and keep trying,
And you will shine and glow!

The Last Page of Childhood

Childhood was a story written in chalk and sunshine,
Where every child claimed, “The world was mine”.

Once when we thought the world was a playground,
Today we stand amidst everyone, where the world is a battleground.

The teachers, the classroom, the school are all a past,
Childhood felt like a rocket which escaped away so fast.

Excited to embark on the journey of adulthood,
But how do we forget our unforgettable childhood.

Footprints of our childhood quietly washing away,
The games we played with dice, slime and clay.

As the sun sets, our childhood ends,
What remains with us are those loyal, supportive friends.

Childhood may be over, but its echoes remain,
Those endless memories feel just so insane.

The years move forward, but the memories walk beside us,
Recollecting all those moments when we laughed, cried and made a fuss.

I Am Growing Up

When I was little, I held Mom's hand,
Too scared to walk, too scared to stand.
Now I walk into school with a smile so bright,
Ready to learn with all my might.

I once could barely hold my pen,
Now I write again and again.
I couldn't read a single page,
Now books take me on every stage.

I used to cry when things went wrong,
Now I try to stay brave and strong.
If I fall, I rise once more,
Each new day helps me explore.

I am still growing, day by day,
Learning something new in every way.
Thank you, teachers, friends, and school,
For helping me grow kind, brave, and cool.

The Best Part of My Dream

Lily was a little girl,
Afraid of the big wide world.
She grew up in the castles wall
Playing with a little doll.
She decided to take a trip out,
Jumping out and about.
She really got up from her dream,
With the sparkling sunshine beam.
She knew her teacher well,
Who had a little bell.
Then she woke up smiling from her dream
And saw her teacher, her favourite gleam.
Oh! Now I know, it's true,
The best part of my dream was you!

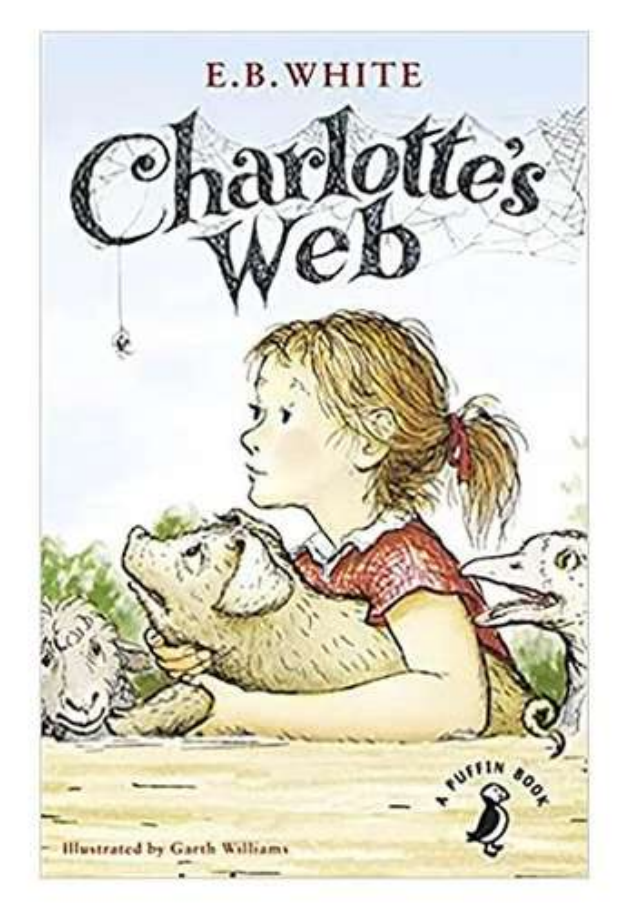
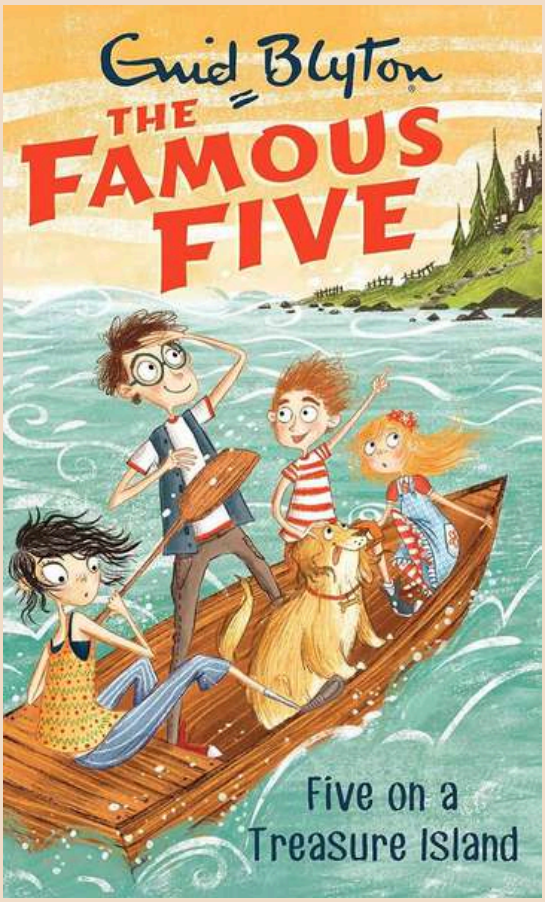
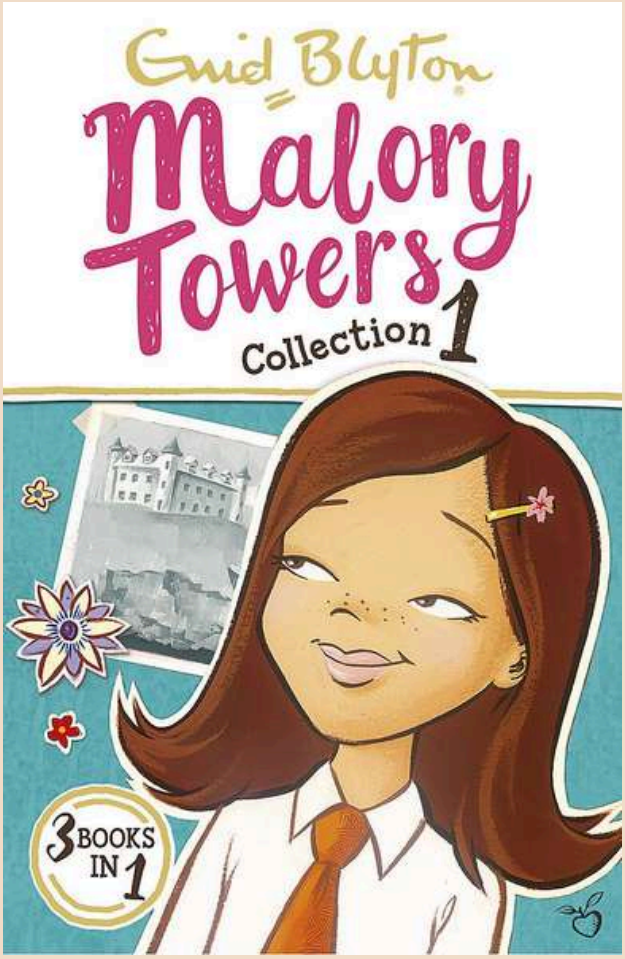
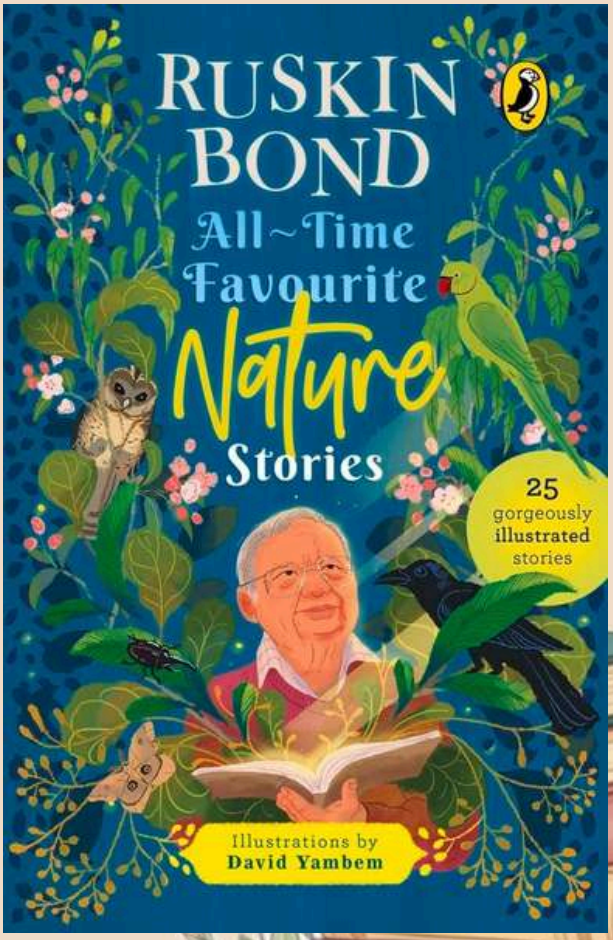
THE BOOK THAT CAPTIVATED READERS









THE SECRET ENVELOPE

A letter you weren't expecting.

TO THE PERSON WHO OPENED THIS

Some messages are meant for everyone.

This one is meant for you.

CONFIDENTIAL

Dear Reader,

There are so many moments in a school year that never make it into a photograph.

A student finally understands something after struggling with it.

A friend makes someone laugh on an ordinary day.

A teacher stays back a little longer to help.

A parent quietly encourages, supports and celebrates.

And sometimes, it is simply a child trying again after saying, "I can't."

These little moments may seem ordinary.
But they are the moments that make a school year meaningful.

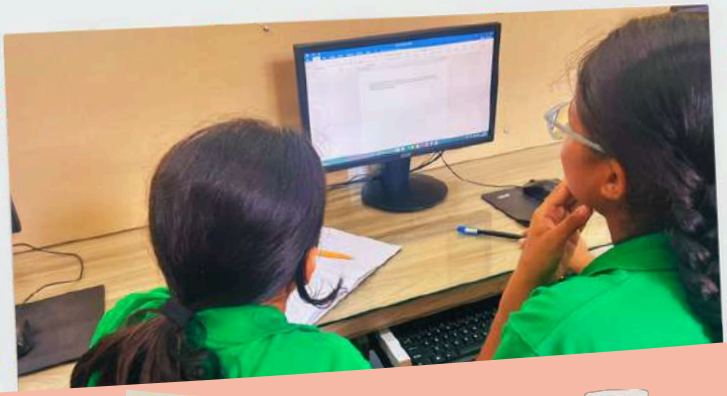
YOU ARE NOT JUST READING THIS STORY.
You are part of it.

The story is still being written.

Before you move on, think of one moment from this year that made you smile.

KEEP THAT MOMENT.



editorial team

And just like that, Tattva 3.0 is a wrap.

Honestly, we can't believe how incredible this journey has been for all of us. From the first idea to the final page, it has been a beautiful mix of creativity, excitement, late-night edits, last-minute chaos, and so many unforgettable moments.

To all the students who shared their unique creativity and helped make the launch of this edition a success, thank you. A heartfelt vote of gratitude to everyone who contributed, both on and off the stage. This chronicle would not have been the same without your stories, ideas, talent, and enthusiasm.

We hope something in these pages made you smile, think, or simply pause for a moment. Every little bit was put together with care and, admittedly, a fair bit of chaos!

A massive thank you to Dharni Teacher and Ashwini Teacher for guiding, supporting, and helping us throughout this journey. We genuinely could not have done it without you.

As we turn the final page of Tattva 3.0, we take with us all the memories, laughter, creativity, and stories that made this edition special.

Until next time, keep creating, keep sharing, and keep telling your stories.

With love,
The Editorial Team
